

Kelva

Mail-inbox-connected receipt, warranty and subscription manager for DACH households.

What it is

Kelva is an iOS + Android app for DACH + EU that digitally manages receipts, warranties and subscriptions. The user connects multiple mail addresses (read-only), incoming mail lands directly in Kelva, gets parsed by AI or a quick manual scan, the user classifies it (invoice, warranty, subscription, contract) and sets reminders. The overview holds all receipts, warranties and subs in one place, plus an optional vault for important documents. With household sharing, a family opens a shared inbox - everyone sees what is going on, priorities split, nothing falls through the cracks.

Who it is for

DACH + EU adults 25-55, families with substantial device inventory, hands-on DIY types, consumer-conscious. Currently DACH-focused due to §437 / §438 BGB and UWG compliance - legal copy is DE + EN. Creators who sit well: DACH lawyer TikTokers (consumer law), savings-tip creators (#sparen, #finanzen), family-organisation IGers, lifehack DACH creators, small DACH tech reviewers.

Why this works as an affiliate pitch

DACH consumers genuinely lose money to expired warranties and forgotten subs every year. The §437 / §438 BGB clock - the consumer-warranty deadline that almost no one tracks correctly - is a concrete pain point that Kelva calculates automatically. Lawyer TikTokers and savings-tip creators have built-in authority for this audience, the demo (mail inbox to organised dashboard) is visually strong, and the household-sharing feature gives family-content creators a unique angle. The 29.99 USD annual price point converts at above-average rates because the alternative (one missed warranty claim = 200-500 EUR lost) is concrete.
